. . . And there was light . . . it glows in an early morning classroom as the struggle to understand begins . . . it is the energy that propels impatient students through the halls at the jangle of bells . . .
it flames red on an athlete's back.
It invades the darkness of a hushed auditorium in the glimmer of a small candle illuminating a red robe and in the flood of light released by the flick of a switch in Byers Field. It is the disturbing gleam of a 1965 Mustang in the driveway next door . . .
the glare of a red E on last week's test paper
. . . your reflection in the glossy gym floor as the starting line-up is announced
. . . the glitter of a new National Honor Society pin . . . the reassuring glow of an oversized ring on your left hand.
It is the light that begins at a bus stop at seven o'clock in the morning
. . . is carried on a bulging yellow bus . . .
and is finally released as the doors of a building open to admit a flood of light and energy. The building has become Parma Senior High School . . . the light that makes her Queen . . . 3200 PSH'ers.

A Football Game Is a Fiery Devotion to a Sport

We are the Redmen, mighty . . .

. . . . to a Team

Everywhere we go . . . People want to know who we are . . . So we tell them . . .

. . . mighty Redmen . . .

and when it is over . . . . to a School

. . . We are the Redmen.

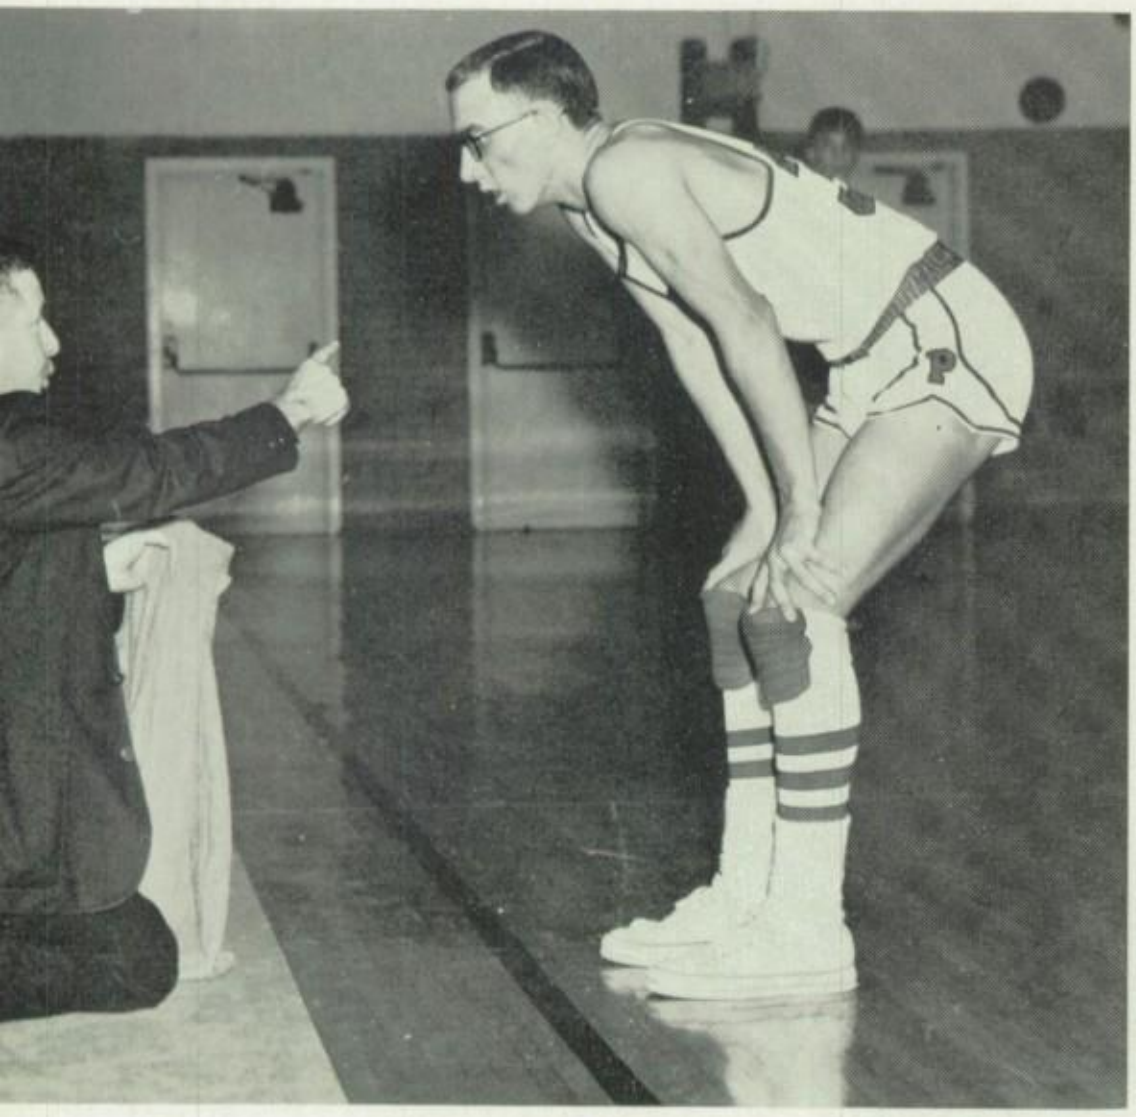
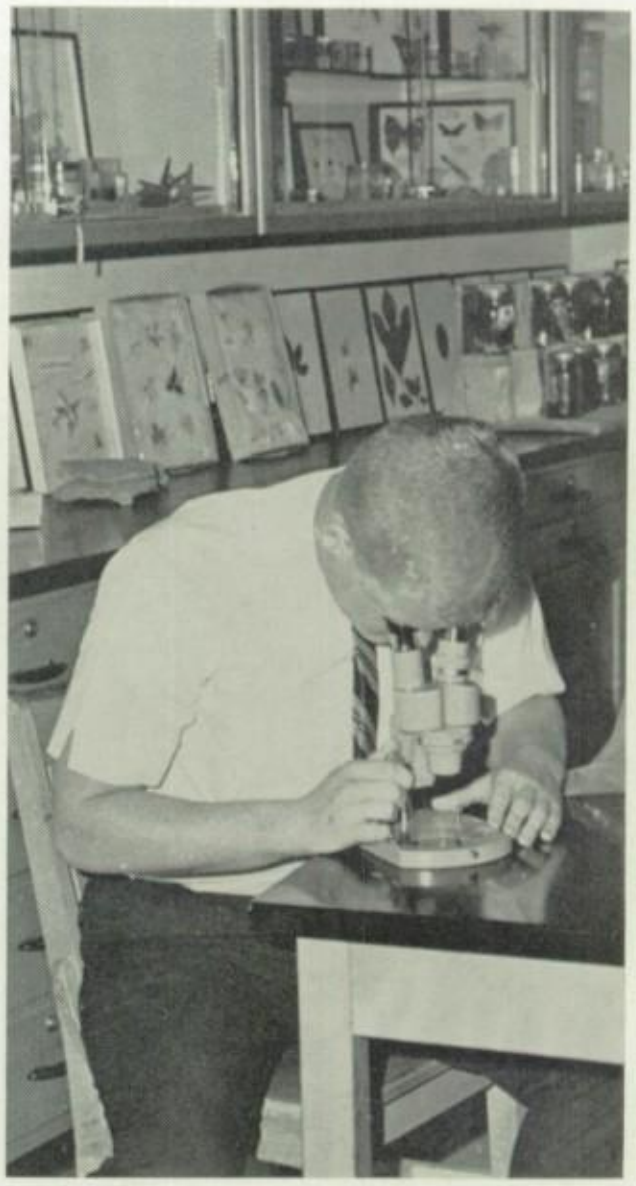
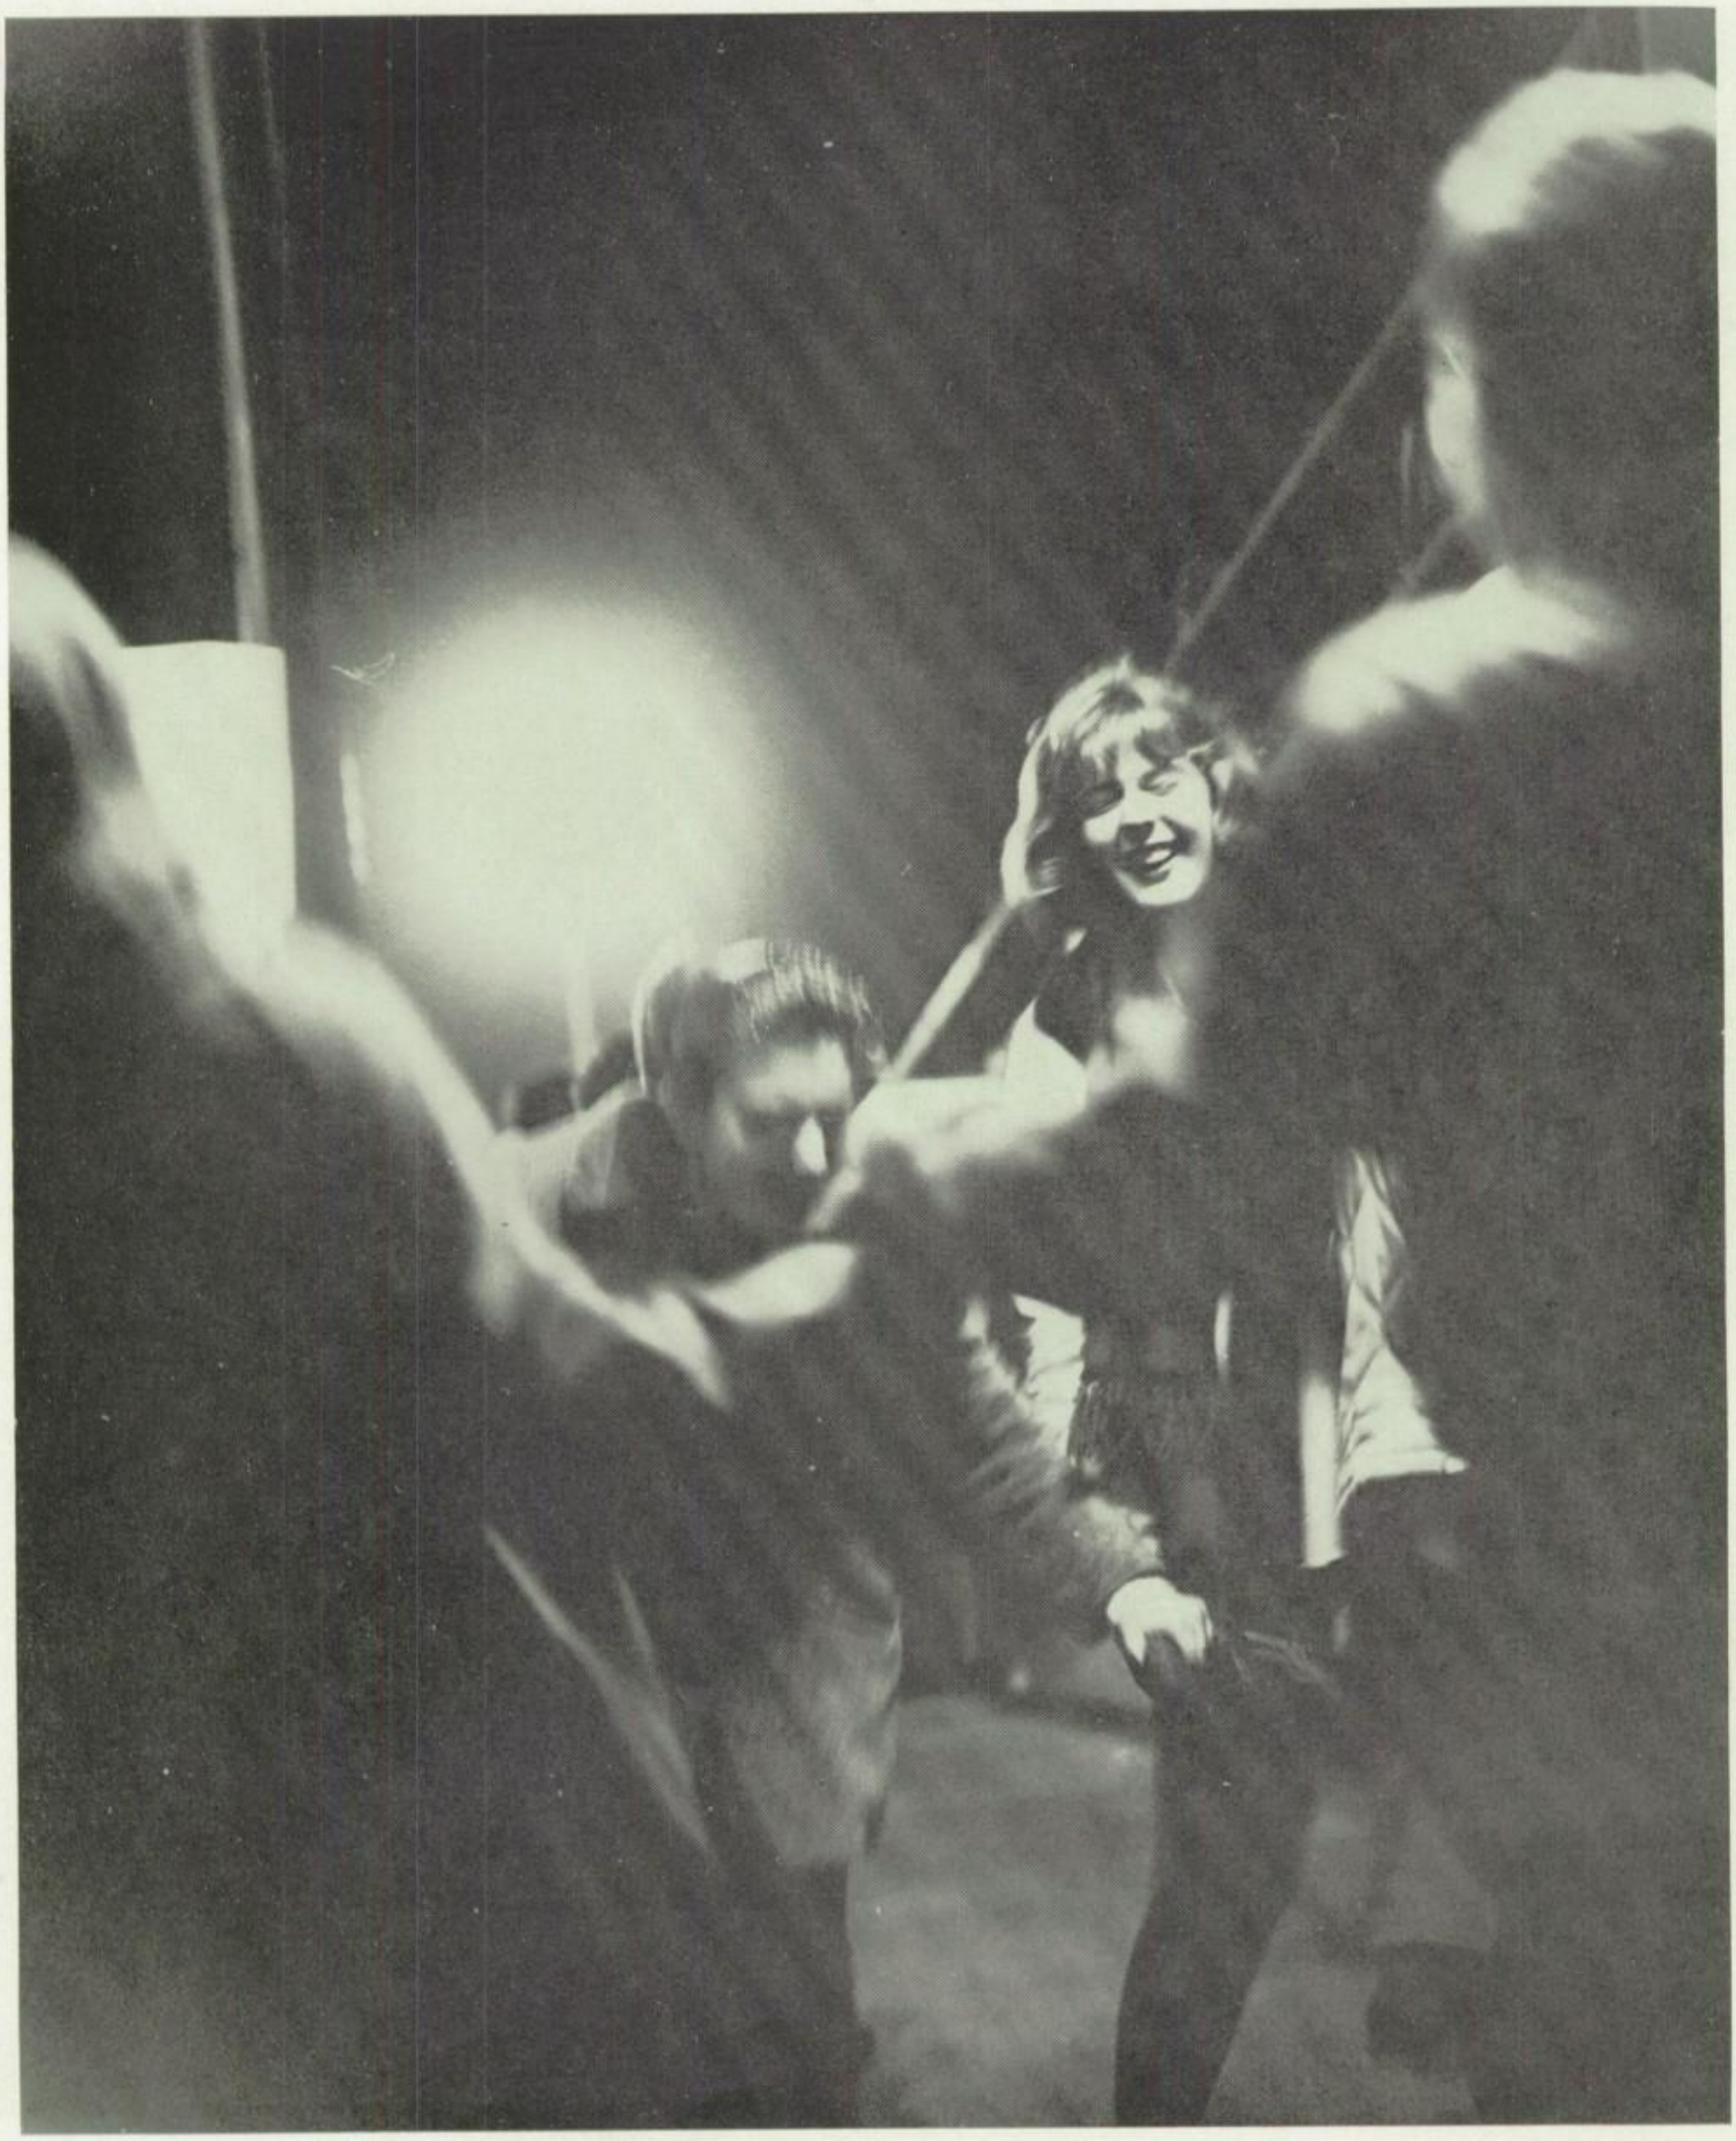
The aura of youth radiates pride . . . impatience

. . . spirit . . . curiosity . . . determination . . .





and wild joy in the faces of Parma's students.



It is night . . . June, 1965, . . . a clock silently counts the minutes in the stillness of a deserted hall. Glass walls trap the mellow glow of tarnished trophies and the brassy blaze of a newcomer, polished by a victor's pride. A janitor patiently sweeps in a strangely silent auditorium . . . he pauses as the echoes of a class flood the room . . . the boom of a study hall teacher's voice . . . an SCM's "I pledge allegiance" . . . the roar of approval for a team's toil . . . the silvery ring of "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day" . . . the sweet melody of a symphony . . . the lyric lines of a play . . . and the surging din of one thousand senior voices. Then the echoes slowly . . . fade . . . away . . . and the auditorium is silent.

Classes come, bringing their triumphs . . . their disappointments . . . and then . . . are gone. The bell tower watches . . . wordlessly. Its clock has lost its hands to the years, but the tower and the building it surveys will be Parma Senior High as long as a teen-ager stands at its doors . . . waiting . . .

PEOPLE

. . . and there was light

And now it's over . . .
Three years of hard labor and happiness,
sweat, blood, and tears . . .
Your name has been called . . .
. . . The diploma is clenched in hand.
The long walk back to your seat,
The long walk that completes three years as a high school student . . .
Now a student no more.
Remember when you were a sophomore?
. . . "Gosh, this school's big!"
. . . "Where the heck is 275?"
. . . "When I'M a junior I won't push those sophomores around like they do this year. Who do they think THEY are?"
Then finally at long last:
. . . "I'm a junior?"
. . . "Boy, look at those sophomores
They get smaller every year!"
. . . A new burst of confidence.
As juniors you knew the ropes . . .
and the seniors.
. . . "Wait till next year!"
. . . "The Class of '65 will be the best yet!"
Clubs and football games became a natural thing,
and school spirit wasn't just a word.
Suddenly - - - - September, 1964.
. . . "You know, I don't feel like a senior.
But just wait."
And we waited and the strangeness wore off.
And we became accustomed to that awesome word:
"We are seniors, we are seniors,
Cha, cha, cha, cha, cha!"
Time went quickly and dragged at the same time.
Each day in itself was forever,
but the months before graduation sped by and it was hard to remember what was what . . . week to week.
Finally, eager to get out,
Not wanting to graduate,
Glad not to stay . . . Hesitant to go.
And now it's over.
A short feeling of elation . . .
A burst of freedom.
. . . "I'm out!"
. . . "Good bye PSH—forever and ever."
. . . "No more homework,
No more books,
No more teachers' dirty looks."
And now it's over . . . But when you're old,
You'll miss it.
I can tell.

In Memoriam

Tony Blagojevic

December 18, 1946—April 9, 1965

Traditional Senior events make our year complete

The Senior Class participates in all PSH school activities, including the All School Party booths.

Like all other graduates, Anna Brezdun prepares to leave PSH and enter a new and unfamiliar world.

Cap Day—a day of fond memories, recollections, and good-byes . . . As we walked through the halls of Parma High for the last time, we relived all the hardships, pleasures, and opportunities we experienced at PSH during the past three years. The next few days flew by, and at last the cherished day that we hoped and strived for for so long finally arrived—Commencement—June 9, 1965.

The Public Auditorium swelled with emotion, as our nervousness melted into glowing feelings of pride. Listening to the speeches of our valedictorians and class speaker, we became acutely aware of the responsibilities we must accept all too soon. Then came the precious moment when we received our diplomas, closing the doors of Parma High behind us forever. But ahead lay a vast world of opportunity, waiting for us to prove that "We are able because we are willing."

The junior year - the midpoint of high school years - has an excitement all its own. With a year of experience behind him, the junior no longer fumbled through crowded halls, uncertain of where he was going. A feeling of confidence overcame him as he saw the familiar faces of teachers, upperclassmen, and his friends. Watching sophomores, he sympathized with their bewilderment, remembering his sophomore days. Although he did not have status of a senior, he had the burdens of an upperclassman. Unlike the sophomores, he was given no time to adjust to the busy student life. Since he was a junior, he was not considered very important. Before he could gain the status of the title senior, he had a year to wait. But this year was filled with many new experiences which added to the excitement of the coming year. The highlight of the year - the junior prom - was a happy end to the year of waiting. As the year had progressed, he had become more and more important until the last week of school when his goal was achieved. He is a senior now.

Class officers Brian Saunders, president; Claudia Balliet, vice-president; Kathy George, secretary; and Leslie McKoy, treasurer, led the class of '67 in their first year at Parma. Sophomores became acquainted with PSH and its teachers on the first few days in September, and they met most of their classmates at the annual Sophomore Mixer. As their studying became harder, the sophomores began to look forward to the Christmas holidays. Several days before vacation, sophomores were awarded first prize for their Christmas window, a chalk drawing of Mary holding Jesus. After they finished first semester examinations, the class of '67 began to prepare for the Sophomore Dance, which they held near the end of the year. An all-sophomore cast, consisting of twelve Thespian pledges, presented Sophocles' Antigone, a Greek tragedy, in the beginning of March. This year the sophomore class was well represented on school athletic teams and had the largest number of students at Parma High.

MR. BASSETT

As principal of Parma Senior High School, Mr. Bassett coordinates the curricular and extra-curricular activities, and carries out the system-wide policies of the Board of Education.

Working with Mr. Bassett is assistant principal, Mr. Gibson. It is his duty to aid counselors in scheduling and to handle other administrative functions of the school. Both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Gibson work to maintain the standards of PSH.

MR. GIBSON

Short conferences take place before board meetings.

After interviewing ninety applicants, the Parma School Board selected Mr. Stuart Openlander as the new superintendent. Previously he was in charge of Dearborn, Michigan Schools for nine years. While in Deaborn Mr. Openlander initiated programs aimed at improving the school system.

The Board of Education, composed of five citizens, expanded and developed the educational facilities of Parma. Efforts toward maintaining and raising the school system's standards were directed by Norman Shibley, School Board president.

LIBRARY

Last fall a television program, complete with cartoons, introduced 1200 new sophomore students to the school library. The orientation session, prepared during summer vacation by the school system's librarians, was geared to help the newcomers locate materials in PSH's 14,675-volume collection. This year the librarians compiled a new book list for the English classes and aided pupils in finding reference materials. Parma's library staff had five members: Miss Silva, department head; Mrs. Hazlett, Miss Vandevoort, Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Whittle, assistant librarians.

Miss Silva tends to her duties as head librarian.

ART AND MUSIC

With over 325 students taking one phase or another of art this year, the art department was on the grow. Students were offered a variety of courses from beginners Art I to advanced Art IV. In addition, Applied Fine Arts provided an opportunity for three dimensional projects. In the Sign Painting classes students learned the fundamental and advanced stages of lettering and poster making. Headed by Mr. Charnigo, the department participated in the art show at Parmatown and had three seniors enter portfolios in the Scholastic Art Awards Show this year.

Swept into a whirlpool of events, the music department performed at one concert after another. Beginning with the Symphonic Band and Orchestra Concert, the music and choir students learned new numbers every week in order to achieve perfection for the long list of events on the music calendar. The orchestra, band, and choral groups each performed at assemblies. In the spring the Concert Choir sang at Wheeling, West Virginia, and PSH entertained the OSU Concert Band. Assisted by the Music Club, the department also purchased new robes for the Concert Choir.

Headed by Mr. Osburn, the department added Biology II to its curriculum.

The science department, consisting of eleven teachers, was instrumental in presenting the annual Science Day and Science Symposium. Through lectures by visiting scientists, diversity was added to the presentation of science.

Automation was a main topic for discussion in senior classes of business education, which were under the direction of Mr. Medalis. The hum of 119 typewriters and office machines sounded each period of the day. Mrs. White, Mrs. Morford, and Miss Morgan brought the business faculty to 16.

Aiming toward the well-rounded student, Physical Education teachers strived for physical as well as mental excellence. Larger classes provided a challenge in organization and discipline. Boys learned new skills in games in sports such as track, wrestling, football, basketball, and baseball. With the emphasis on team effort, girls polished skills in field hockey, soccer, and volley ball. Tumbling, apparatus, and folk dancing showed the diverse range of the curriculum. Since the department reached almost all of the PSH students, physical fitness was stressed.

With efficiency as their key word, secretaries in the main office served Parma High by running off mimeographed tests and worksheets for the faculty, delivering teachers' pay checks, looking up school records of students seeking employment, and taking letters from Mr. Bassett and Mr. Gibson. In another corner of PSH, attendance office workers performed their chores of excusing absences and tardies, and typing office reports. Also aiding the people of Parma High was the school nurse, Mrs. Swanson, who was always prepared to handle cases of illness brought to her.

Morning routine involves clearance of daily absences.

From the early light of dawn until far after the fall of the night, the custodians performed their tasks. During the day they did necessary repair work, kept the school clean, and in winter, kept rooms warm. Four custodians and two helpers helped keep PSH a better place to work.

Early in the morning the cafeteria staff came to prepare the day's meals and make sure that the food was hot for all lunch periods. After the hungry students had eaten, the cafeteria crew scraped, washed, and stacked the thousands of dishes, silverware, and trays used each day.

ACTIVITIES

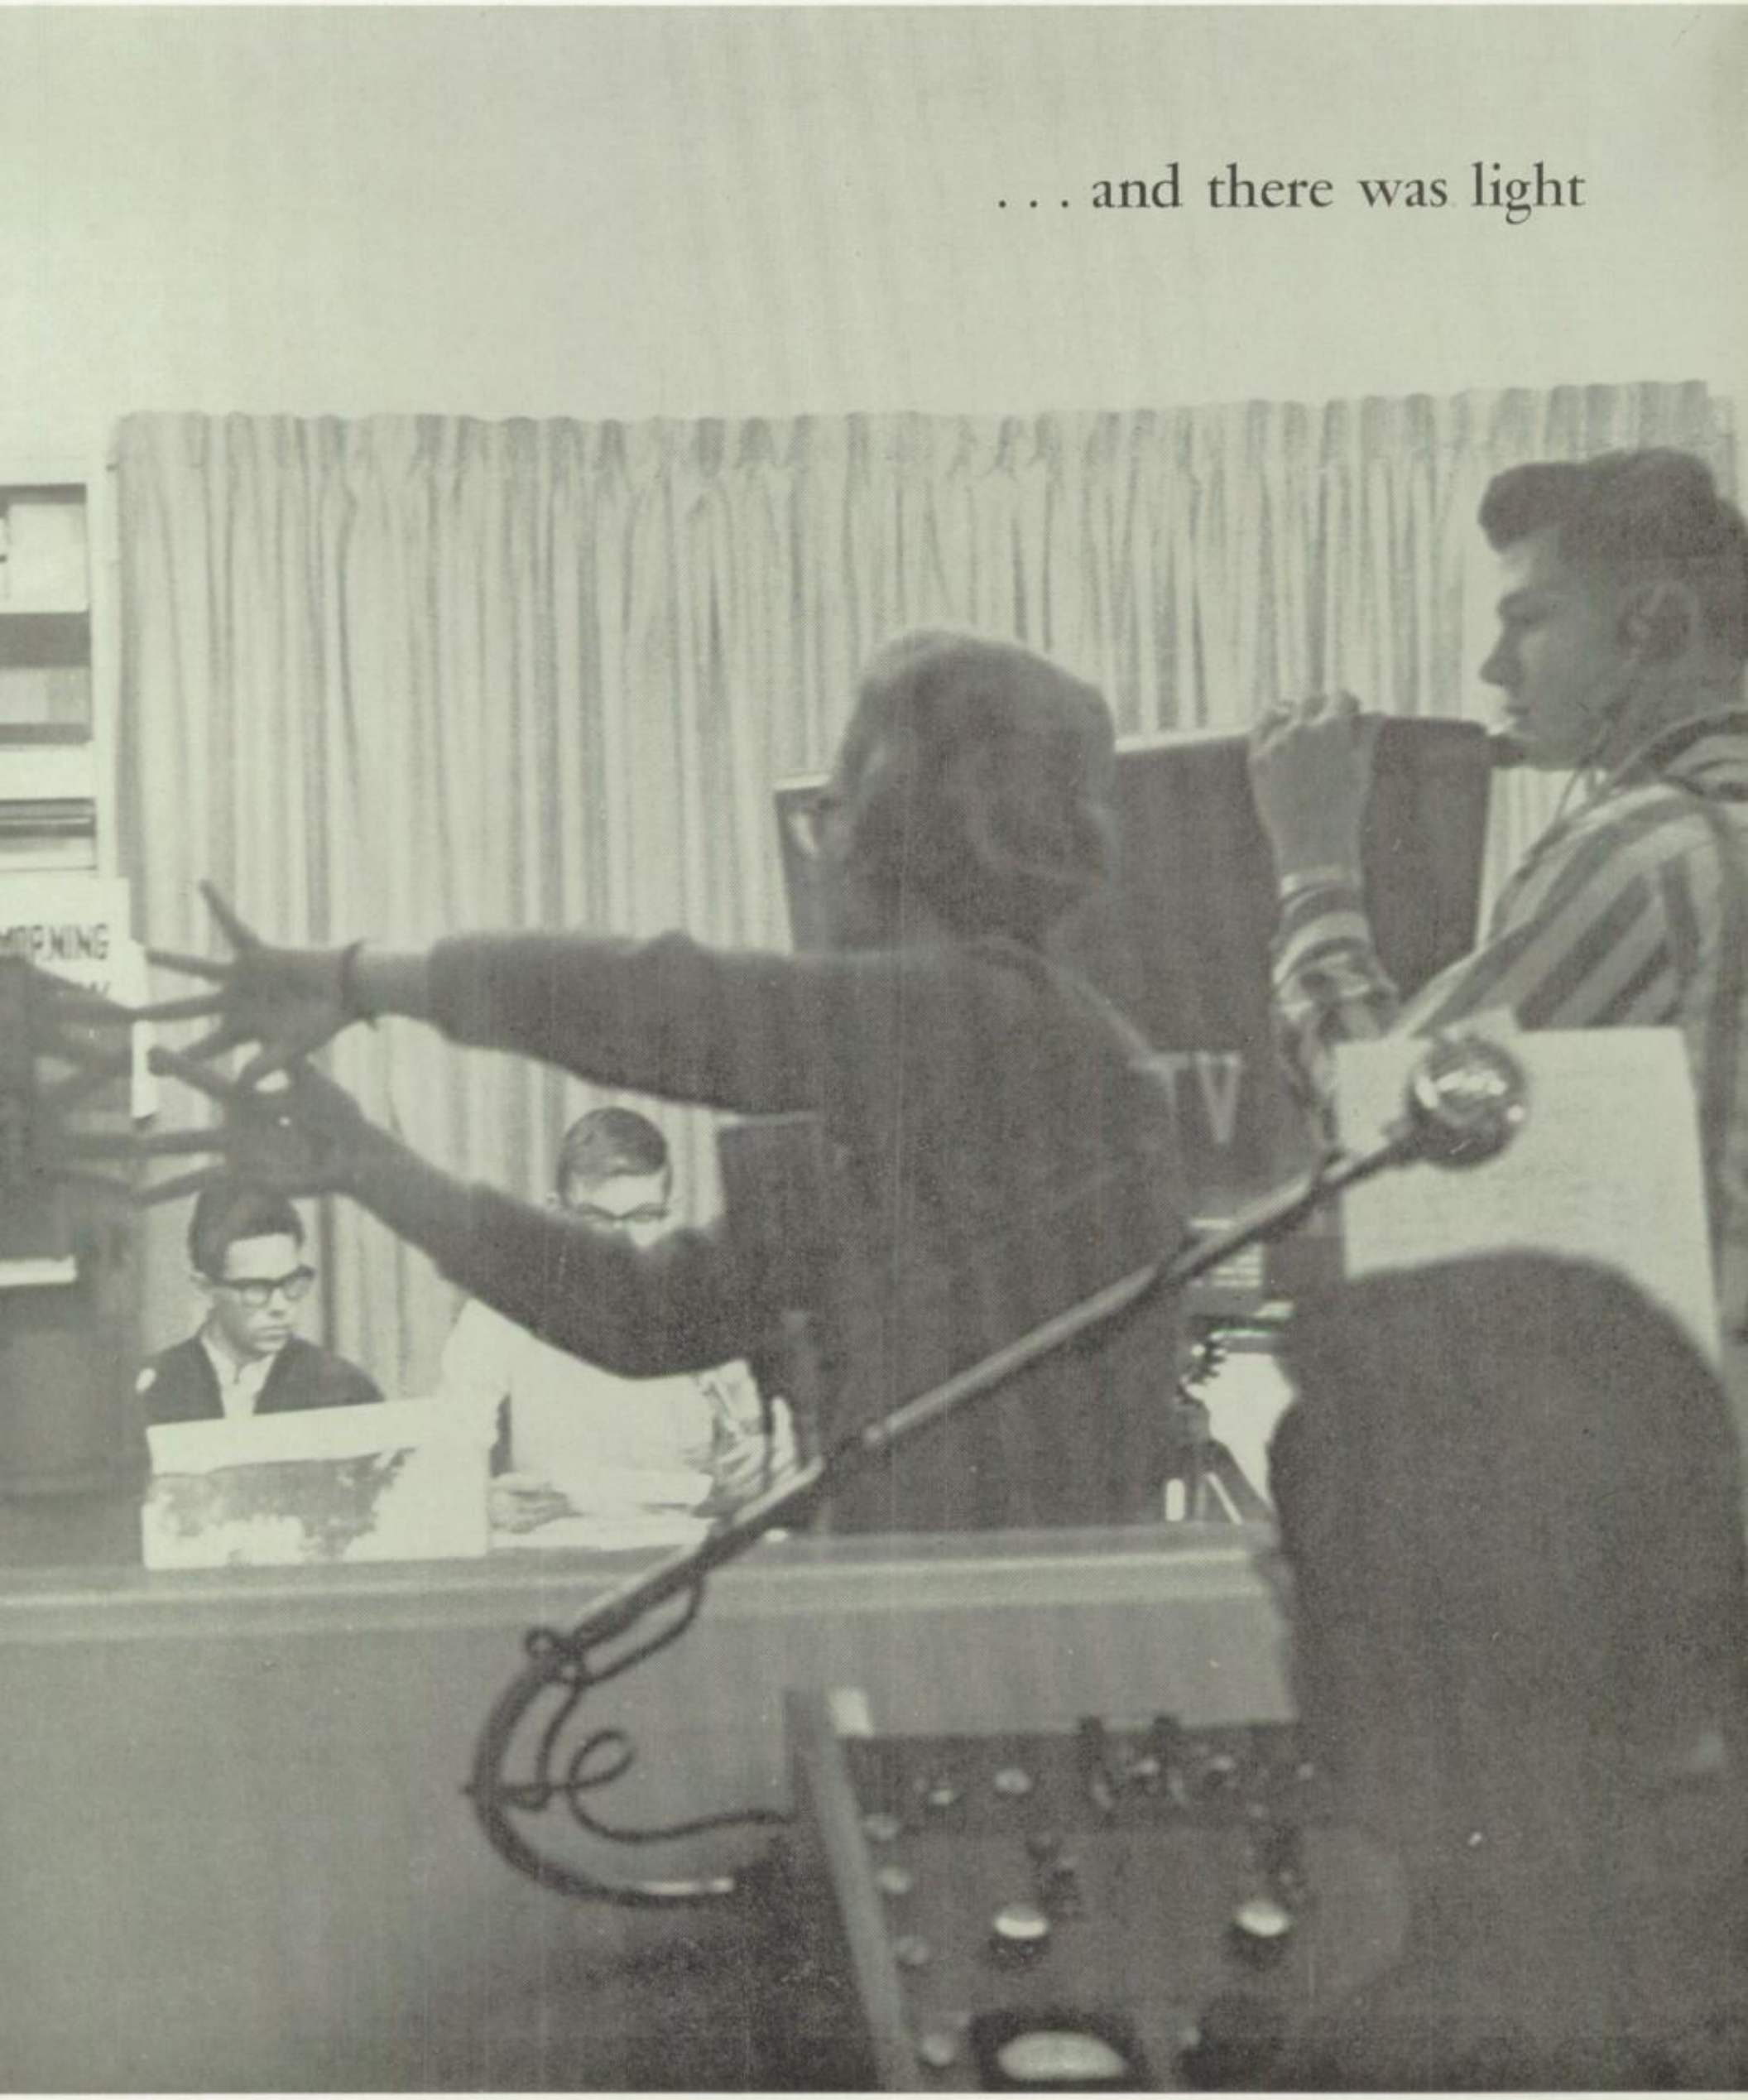
. . . and there was light



To the "lowly" sophomore, Parma personifies activity—constant varied activity. He is impressed by the number of interests represented—from the Ski Club to the choirs, and he is impressed also by the response and participation from the student body. So, the sophomore and his friends join the AVA crew or the Safari Club or volunteer their services as members of the Stage Crew.

To the junior, Parma offers a chance to pursue his interests—perhaps a class office, or a Y-Teen cabinet post. After one year of membership, the junior begins to take a more active role in the club by voicing his ideas in planning committees, or supervising a phase of the club's programs.

To the proud senior, Parma represents opportunity: creative opportunities as the Student City Manager, as the president of Thespians or as the editor-in-chief of the Parma Hi-Spot . . . molding the student body, a group of people, "the staff," into a working whole, and creating a masterpiece—doing, perhaps, what he will spend the rest of his life doing in the world outside.

To all, Parma is a promise, a life, and a fulfillment of the best in each of her students.

The Student Council, headed by SCM Bob Antall, votes on programs affecting the students of Parma.

More the Merrier and To a Lovely Margaret were the first plays presented by the Masquers Club. These plays gave members an opportunity to learn and to practice dramatic skills. Directed by Miss Steel, the Masquers saw several plays downtown to study acting techniques.

Under the direction of Mr. Mayer, club adviser, the Thespians gave one major performance—a night of Greek tragedies. The dramatics group staged Medea and Antigone. New members were inducted at a dinner at Carrie Cerino's, and cast parties were held after the Junior and Senior Plays.

To help French, German, Russian, and Spanish students improve pronunciation, assistants, under Mr. Cowgill, were stationed in the library's language practice room. Student supervisors were able to furnish lessons from a collection of over 400 tapes in order to assist language students.

Work dominated the scene as the preparations for the Morning Show commenced. Staff members checked their respective jobs, and hurried to get their equipment ready. At the designated time, the Morning Show started its report of school, sports, and club news. With its experienced TV crew, WTIP also televised the show to the homerooms. Under the supervision of Mr. Cowgill, the staff presented station editorials, plus a series of Decade shows. These programs provided a means of communication with the entire student body. Now in its tenth anniversary year, WTIP prepared educational shows for teachers, and provided the facilities to monitor anything of national importance. From this experience the station added another first in February, televising the Parma-Valley Forge basketball game over closed-circuit television to viewers in the auditorium.

COUNCIL

Comprised of sixty-six members, the Student Council this year sponsored such activities as the annual Sophomore Mixer, the All School Party, the Twirp Dance, and the Variety Show. Other services included organizing assemblies and providing buses for away sports events. The duties of all Council members were to produce a responsible self-government, to enforce all school regulations, and to encourage other students to comply with them. Advised by Mr. Lindsey, the main duty of the Student Council was to help solve many school problems. The Student City Manager, Bob Antall, was in charge of each meeting. The representatives met once every three weeks. In May the outstanding members of the Student Cabinet, who worked throughout the entire school year, received special acclaim at the Student Council Banquet, bringing the year to an end.

NHS

"The Parma Senior High Chapter National Honor Society invites you to become one of its members." An invitation like this was given to five percent of the present Senior Class in their junior year and another ten percent in their senior year. In order to be considered for membership, a candidate must have maintained a minimum 4.0 grade average through high school and must be recommended by members of the faculty for his character, leadership, and service to the school and community. Being inducted is one of the greatest honors that a student can hope to attain.

Under the guidance of Mr. Duff and Miss Milliron, members compiled the scholarship rolls each marking period and, in December, donated a collection of their childhood books to the Jones Home.

Social activities included a January dinner party and the annual picnic in the spring.

Administering minor first aid was one of the major services of the clinic aids. To assist Mrs. Swanson, Parma's nurse, two girls were on duty every period of the day. They also took temperatures, filled out records, interviewed students, and helped to contact parents of ill students.

By investigating careers in nursing and associated fields, Mrs. Swanson and Mrs. Dean, FNA advisers, prepared each member for the future she desired. Members acquainted themselves with the nursing profession through speakers, films, and a field trip to Metropolitan General Hospital.

To prepare its members for skilled business jobs was the goal of the Future Business Leaders of America Club. Advised by Mrs. Deepe and Miss Morgan, members gave donations to the cancer home at Christmas time and, in the spring, held a joint senior farewell banquet with Forge.

Further interest in homemaking was provided by the Home Economics Club of PSH. Under the supervision of Mrs. Barnhill, the traditional mother-daughter banquet highlighted the year. The girls made cookies for the patients of the cancer home in Parma and held a candy sale.

"Good morning, teacher!" This greeting thrilled many of Parma's Future Teachers of America as they were called "teacher" for the first time.

The wonderful glow of satisfaction that comes with helping young students was experienced twice during the school year. Members first observed elementary or junior high school classes and then returned the following week to instruct them.

Advised by Miss Verdile and Miss Wilson, members earned some of their required ten hours service each month by managing the bookstore, aiding teachers, and serving as office or library pages.

Over one hundred office pages served teachers, counselors, and office personnel at PSH. The pages spent their study hall periods performing necessary tasks such as assembling records and typing, filing and paging. At Parma, the pages supplied voluntary aid to busy office staffs.

While classes were in session, hall guards stopped students who were walking through PSH's corridors. Keeping hall traffic to a minimum, hall guards checked the students' passes and nodded them on to their destinations. Mr. Bihary advised the hall monitors this year.

Continuing her position as head librarian, Miss Silva helped library pages obtain knowledge of the library. Securing magazines, checking out books, and shelving them, pages served their fellow students. The annual librarian's picnic in spring brought the school year to a close.

Encouraging students to develop an interest in Spanish was the main purpose of the Spanish Club. Trips to restaurants, plays, and events pertaining to Spain were the main activities of the club. Speakers, films, and songs constituted club meetings, under the direction of Miss Brailey.

To gain insight in Russian culture and to promote further study in the language were the goals of Russian club members. Under the direction of Mr. Toomey, the club sponsored a bake sale and listened to speakers who lectured on the various phases of Russian life and customs.

As a member of the Save the Child Federation, the French Club sent the proceeds from a basketball dance to a needy French child. Under the advisorship of Mrs. Swart, members visited a French restaurant and viewed slides of France in order to appreciate the culture of that country.

To learn more about Germany than was possible in a classroom was the aim of the German Club. Advised by Mr. Ansley, who recently returned from Germany, members learned about the life, customs, and education of this European country. Highlighting the year was a German movie.

Furthering its members' study of the Latin language, encouraging appreciation of Roman customs, and promoting social activities were three objectives of the Latin Club. Advised by Mrs. James, members had a roller skating party, a hay ride, and, at the end of the year, a Roman banquet.

A yearbook is . . . a teacher's expression, a chemistry experiment, a play, a dance, a game, a concert, a cheer, a groan, an SCM, an IBM card, a dream, a class, a year . . . and a staff. The burden of recording a year for eternity passes to thirty people in June. A summer of dreams and plans stretches to September . . . and the cold facts of transforming imagination into dollars and cents, 49 characters per line, 108 square inches to a page, and 1000 pictures in six months of deadlines, readjustments, retakes, and rewrites.

Working on a yearbook staff is taking golf candids in January; crowding 150 people on risers that accommodate 90; searching frantically for one negative in a box of 300; and, after finally escaping from the mass chaos of room 141, being asked the question, "And how is the yearbook coming?" Thirty staff members endure these trials with the knowledge that they have been given a precious year—a year unique among all others, past and future. This is a staff and a Spectrum—1965.

SCIENTIUM

Marion Bischof, Literary Editor

Because of the great response to last year's literary magazine, the Shield was produced again at PSH. Advised by Mrs. Rex and Mrs. Tuttle, the Shield staff screened and judged manuscripts contributed by students for the production of this magazine. A staff of over twenty members dealt with the technical or literary aspects of the Shield. Its short stories, essays, and poems served as an outlet for student creativity.

HI-SPOT

Editorials, ads, pictures, page plans—all were familiar to the staff of the Parma Hi-Spot which was under the supervision of Mr. Piskos. As soon as each issue was distributed to the student body, still another was being written. Sunday nights found editors cutting or writing—laying out that certain page for the coming Friday's edition.

This year they included a "Dimension" page in every six-page spread, featured Brian Jefferies in his own column "on life" and added the "voice of dissent", the "Student Voice", and cartoons "by Peck"—all served "the Queen and all her court."

YOUTH TRAFFIC COUNCIL—Drees, Widlica, Keller, Smithers, James, Jecco, Koedyker, Petris.

Because many students drive daily to Parma, the Youth Traffic Council was formed to promote safe driving habits. The Council held safety checks and publicized car safety under the guidance of Mr. Clevenger. Working together, YTC aimed to improve the community image of teen-age drivers.

Guiding sophomores on their first school day, the Senior Patrol began another year of service to PSH. Directed by Detective Feador, of the Parma City Police, the uniformed students worked at music concerts, sports events, dances, dramatic presentations, and other functions.

Helping others, in affiliation with the YMCA, was the chief aim of Parma's Trojans, Teutons, and Spires' Hi-Y clubs. Under the direction of Mr. Brugge, Mr. Bright, and Mr. Fleming, the clubs made contributions to the World Youth Program, held car washes, made Christmas baskets for the community's destitute families, and participated in the All-School Party. Two members of the Teutons attended the Youth and Government Council in Columbus where they took part in the state legislature. This was just one of the ways the boys combined fellowship, education and fun.

SPIRES HI-Y—Bottom Row—Wengrin, Helferich, treasurer; Gladin, president; Beaton, secretary; Pescatrice. Row 2—Budz, assistant director of public relations; Tice, Cavanaugh, Eiloo, Porter, Payton. Row 3—Heyworth, Newell, Feiss, Heysek, Herzak, sergeant at arms; Huntley, Thayer.

SENIOR Y-TEEN CABINET —Bottom Row—Brandt, interclub representative; Orne, president; Walters, vice president; Schuessler, treasurer. Row 2—Fahrland, meditations; Kennedy, publicity; Brancatelli, finance chairman; Bohmer, service chairman. Row 3—Myers, program chairman; Ferguson, refreshment chairman; Jacques, membership chairman.

This year Surfer's Inn, a booth at the All-School Party, was sponsored by the eighty members of the Senior Y-Teens, advised by Miss Sheffer. A rummage sale, mother-daughter tea, and swim party were among the club's list of activities. A picnic was held in June as a farewell to PSH.

Dances, bakesales, carwashes, and swimming parties were among the activities highlighting the 1964-65 schedule of the Junior Y-Teens. Under the guidance of Mrs. Siegel, members distributed Christmas stockings to orphaned and underprivileged children as a holiday service project.

JUNIOR Y-TEEN CABINET— Bottom Row — Blower, refreshment chairman; Bosely, vice president; Campbell, president; Cupedro, treasurer; Krakora, secretary; Dean, service chairman. Row 2 — Laska, maintenance chairman; Kovalchik, program chairman; Bertolone, service chairman; Kawai, publicity chairman; Clements, chaplain; Winar, song leader.

Providing a variety of canteens for the enjoyment of the PSH students was the main purpose of the Canteen Committee, advised by Mr. Bright. This year the committee made two scholarship contributions and made donations to the United Appeal, Spectrum, and National Honor Society.

By listening to college mathematics majors discuss new aspects of the field, by attending trips, and by reporting on projects, Math Club members learned the importance of mathematics in this scientific age. Advised by Mr. Hicks, the club learned new topics through out-of-class study.

This year Sophomore Y-Teens donated the proceeds from such charity projects as a bakesale and a carwash to the World Fellowship, which aided Y-Teen organizations in other countries. Advised by Miss Mills, club members held an Easter party for the children at Parmadale Orphanage.

With the rapping of the gavel, another Girls' Board meeting, supervised by Miss Baesel, came to order. Events sponsored by the club included the Mr. Ugly Contest at the All School Party and Top Teen Week in February, during which the student body elected Mr. and Miss Parma High.

Under the direction of Mr. Buchko, the Political Discussion Group began its first year at PSH. The twenty-five members met the second and fourth Monday of each month to discuss current, national, local, social, economic, and political issues. Speakers, such as Mayor Day, spoke to the club.

To develop a writing skill which would express ideas clearly and in a well-written manner, the members of the Creative Writing Club met twice a month. With Mrs. Tuttle, Miss O'Neill, and literary lecturers, members discussed the organization necessary in essays, stories, and poems.

Formed by Mr. Uhl, the Skin and Scuba Club was the first of its kind to be organized at Parma Senior High. Included in the club's activities were movies and lectures on the sport of diving. During the autumn and winter months when diving was impossible, members kept fit at the YMCA.

Snow plowing, side stepping, and traversing became common words to members of the Ski Club as, twice a week, they traveled to Boston Mills. Formation of the largest ski club in the Ohio area reflected nationwide interest in winter sports. Mr. Burnett and Mr. Telemachos advised the club.

Service projects for the needy and a float for Homecoming comprised a few of the events sponsored by Boys Boosters. Supervised by Mr. Hocevar, the club promoted Parents' Night at a home football game and held a dance in winter. The main purpose of Boys Boosters was participating in and promoting school activities, serving PSH, and promoting the well-being of the school.

BOOSTERS

Receiving their sweaters, the Girls Boosters assumed responsibilities—distributing pep signs, selling tickets to school activities, participating in pep rallies. Advised by Miss Reams, the club sponsored a fall hootenanny and, during the Christmas season, greeted the Holy Family Home patients with carols and filled stockings.

In May the dream of becoming '66 Girls Boosters came true for a spirited group of junior girls, as they were tapped by senior "big sisters".

Formations such as the election donkey and elephant and a wishing well came to life at weekly football games as the 120 Marching Redmen and Hi-Steppers strutted through the ten-game season. The unisphere was the season's main attraction.

The instrumental season opened with the Orchestra and Symphonic Band Christmas Concert. In January the Symphonic and Concert Bands presented Music For Many Moods. A new addition to the '64-'65 school year was the Concert Band Concert in April. Parma's orchestra led the state in the number of members present in the North East Region Orchestra and All-State Band.

The contest circuit took the solo and ensembles to Euclid, the orchestra to Akron, and the Symphonic Band to Cleveland Heights and Columbus. A Spring Serenade by all three groups in June topped the musical calendar for the '65 season.

CHOIRS

To the PSH choirs, notes were not only pieces of paper that students passed in class. They were also marks on a sheet of music, which they turned into pleasing and melodic sounds.

At a fall banquet 53 new members were welcomed to the Concert Choir. The choir learned an average of two songs a week, appeared in a concert at Wheeling, West Virginia, participated in the LEL Festival, and sang at Commencement. A fruitcake sale, held by Parma's groups, made the purchase of new Concert Choir robes possible.

Concert Choir, Choralaires, and Chansonaires, directed by Miss Hill, and Parmanaires led by Mr. Wiles, appeared in the Christmas Candlelight Concert. For the twentieth consecutive year Concert Choir sang at the Easter Sunrise program. In May the Choral Extravaganza was presented.

All-Stars

Formerly head coach at Geneva High School, new varsity football mentor, Brian Burke, took over the coaching reins from Bob Brugge this year and inherited a team that dropped nine of ten decisions. Plagued by injuries all season, the Redmen were forced to play several games without such players as captain Bob Haas, and lettermen Bill Musal, Jeff Stemler, and Tom Allen.

The gridders opened the season with a loss to highly-rated Admiral King, 32 to 16, at Lorain. Returning to Byers Field, the Redmen bowed to St. Ignatius, 42 to 16. Then, at full strength for the Rhodes game, the team, scoring three times in the fourth period, came back with its only victory of the season, a 30 - 6 walloping of the Rams.

Lake Erie League foe Brush posted a 14 - 0 shut-out over the Redmen. A loss to Euclid's Panthers at Euclid, 27 to 0, was followed by another bitter defeat, as arch-rival Valley Forge tore the Redmen apart, 30 to 0. In their fourth league contest, the gridders dropped a tough decision to Cleveland Heights, 24 to 18. Lakewood then downed Parma, 26 to 6, and a week later, Shaker Heights toppled the Redmen, 34 to 14. A loss to Shaw, LEL co-champs, ended the season.

JV's Place 3rd in LEL

JV's watch and hope for a victory against Shaker.

Called the "New Breed" by the coaching staff at Parma, this year's group of sophomores was the first JV team to begin playing under the staff of Parma High's new coach Brian Burke.

Placing third in LEL play with a four win-three loss record in league action, the Parma JV football team was 4-3-1 over-all during the 1964 season. The team began its season by tying St. Ignatius, 6 to 6, in independent play, rolling over Brush, 20 to 6, and shutting out Euclid, 8 to 0. The JV's then faced Valley Forge and went down to defeat, 14 to 0. The "New Breed", with unseen defeat, challenged Cleveland Heights, where they lost, 8 to 6. The team, recovering from two discouraging losses, lashed out against its next opponent, Lakewood, and crushed them, 8 to 0. Full of spirit, the team traveled to Shaker where they finally overcame Shaker, 24 to 16. Finishing the season, Parma lost to Shaw, 16 to 0.

Parma Outdistances Foes

Over-all balance was the trade-mark of the 1964 Redmen cross-country squad, as no single outstanding runner monopolized individual honors. Coming in third in the district and finishing fourth in the Lake Erie League, Parma compiled a record of four wins and four losses in dual meets.

The high point of the season came when the harriers, coached by Meade Burnett, downed Valley Forge's distance men at State Road Park.

A dark horse in the LEL, Parma surprised everyone by taking league laurels, tying Shaw for the crown, with an 11-win, 3-loss record.

Easy wins over Warrensville and St. Joseph, 55 - 45, and 57 - 50, began the season. Following was a surprise victory over Shaw, 56 - 50.

Parma then suffered losses to Lorain Admiral King, 89 - 85, Euclid, 70 - 60, and Shaker Hts., 54 - 51. Bouncing back, the cagers overran Cleveland Hts., 71 - 65, and Lakewood, 85 - 71.

Next, St. Ignatius beat Parma, 60 - 68. The squad then took victories over VF, 70 - 59, and Brush, 86 - 80, and lost to Shaw, 68 - 60.

Victory over Euclid, 90 - 55, Shaker Heights, 94 - 64, Cleveland Heights, 84 - 77, and Lakewood, 68 - 65, all added to the Redmen's success.

After another win over VF, 51 - 45, the cagers clinched the title by downing Brush, 91 - 74.

Traveling to Warrensville for their first game, the Redmen opened a new season with a win against their opponent by a score of 55 to 35. Meeting St. Ignatius, the Redmen fell to defeat by a score of 45 to 60. But all hope was not lost as the Redmen beat Shaw by a narrow margin of one point, as the score turned out to be 47 to 46. The Redmen fell to their next two opponents, Lorain Admiral King, 41 to 50, and Euclid, 53 to 56. The Redmen overtook Shaker Hts., 51 to 34, and Cleveland Hts., 62 to 52. The next three games were dropped to Lakewood, 42 to 56, St. Ignatius, 36 to 52, and VF, 54 to 70. They then defeated Brush, 73 to 66, and dropped the next three to Shaw, 35 to 69, Euclid, 50 to 56, and Shaker, 52 to 65. Making a comeback, the JV's beat Cleveland Hts., 74 to 34. # Matmen Finish Second

With seven returning lettermen, the Varsity wrestling team captured a second-place tie with Shaker in the LEL. The Redmen began the season on a sour note, falling to Brecksville, 20 - 7. Sparked with energy, they bounced back to defeat Midpark, 18 - 17, St. Joseph, 19 - 19, Berea, 39 - 5, and Shaw, 33 - 6. After a 18 - 17 loss to Euclid, the team began its winning streak by beating Shaker, 20 - 14, Cleveland Hts., 18 - 17, Elyria, 22 - 14, Lakewood, 32 - 10, and Brush, 23 - 15. In the final match, Parma fell to VF, 29 - 6.

Parma JV Grapplers marched to victory by crushing Brecksville, Midpark, St. Joseph, Berea, Shaw, Euclid, Shaker, Cleveland Hts., Elyria, Lakewood, and Brush. The only loss of the season was to VF, giving them a 1st place LEL tie.

Bowling Team Succeeds

After a tough 21-week schedule, Parma's bowlers ranked near the top of the 22-team Greater Cleveland Interscholastic Bowling League. Included in the league were all traditional Lake Erie rivals and Cleveland area parochial and public schools.

The keglers, coached by Mr. Harry Holzinger, took two individual scoring honors when Captain Dennis Gladin and Ted Lorek, both seniors, placed second and third in the league. Gladin had an average of 187, just four pins behind first place. Lorek followed with an average of 185.

The rest of the team, consisting of one senior and five juniors, supported their two top men well, rendering an overall team average of 168.

Intramurals

Giving the opportunity to engage in athletics to virtually every one of Parma's male students, the high school's intramural program offered supervised competition in sports ranging from touch football to tennis. Other offerings this year included softball, basketball, and cross country.

Mr. Brugge, a physical education and health instructor, coordinated intramural activities. He was aided by Mr. Cline and Mr. Thomson.

Chess, added to the roster of intramural activities this year, stimulates the minds of its participants.

Rugged plays underneath the boards occurred frequently in this tough intramural basketball game.

Spring Sports Promise Improved Performances

With spring and the oncoming season came two of Parma's major sports: baseball and track.

The Redman baseball team, coached by Mr. Posgai, had seven of the eight starting men from last year's squad returning to bolster the 1965 team. The "diamondmen" replaced their 1964 season's lacking features with skill and determination in their 1965 spring season baseball games.

Baseball's running mate, the track team, consisted of about 60 members. Under head coach Mr. Burnett and assistant coaches Mr. Wiley and Mr. Brugge, the "cindermen of Parma" placed second in the district out of 20, and third in the LEL. During one season's running, the team broke nine school records and had the first indoor meet.

Practicing daily, both teams put forth every effort to keep PSH the "Queen of High Schools."

Redman Netters Score

Under the new tennis coach, Mr. J. McRae, the tennis team had a season record of 5 wins and 2 losses. The team began the season by dropping the first two games to Euclid, 4 to 1, and Cleveland Heights, 3 to 2. Shooting back, the team went on to conquer arch rival, Valley Forge, 4 to 1, and to win by a narrow margin over Shaker by a score of 3 to 2. Still hot, the Redmen overcame Shaw, 4 to 1, and Lakewood, 3 to 2. The final game was a decisive victory over Brush, 3 to 2.

TENNIS TEAM—Kneeling— B. Meyer, R. Meyer, Linkas, Phylijiak, Nechvatal, C. Spear, Huntley, J. Spear, Eiloo. Standing—Davis, Herzak, Vining, Neu, Russell, Reblin, Olejarczyk, Kobrinski, Irish, Lahl, Coach McRae.

Golfers Try For Title

Hoping to improve upon last year's finish, Parma's golf team began its season with a nucleus of four returning veterans. Coached by Ray Roob, the golfers were led by seniors Ken Soler and Len Tober and juniors Jay Balluck and Dave Shroka, a quartet who last season placed third in league play. The spring schedule consisted of fourteen matches, plus LEL Day, in which all Lake Erie League schools took part.

Leaders embody the qualities of ability and fun

The girls leaders, busy in the gym . . .

Helping students and assisting teachers were two of the many ways the Girls Gym Leaders contributed their time and effort to the physical education department. The leaders met weekly to practice skills and to learn new games to teach to classes. This year the girls, advised by Miss Munsell, built a float for homecoming and took part in the annual All-School Party.

Cheerleaders—The patriotic backbone of Parma

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y is the Parma battle cry" was the yell of the cheerleaders trying to induce a more enthusiastic feeling among the Redmen spectators. Whether at a wrestling match, football game or basketball contest, the spirit of the cheerleaders seemed always optimistic, regardless of the score. Studying and practicing new cheers started during summer vacation and continued through the sports seasons. A new symbol of Redmen patriotism was built by the girls during the summer. This nine-foot, papier-mache totem pole was displayed at home football games.

Varsity cheerleaders ignite school spirit at PSH.

Guess Joni Bambeck is going to try it again!

Nothing stopped tennis lovers from using the courts.

Sports-minded girls had the opportunity to cultivate their interests during the after-school intramurals. With mutual interests, the girls gathered and organized into teams to participate in such sports as basketball, volleyball, baseball, and tennis. On Thursday after school the girls boarded buses and were transported to Parmatown Bowling Lanes. Bowling was the only sport in which the girls competed against other teams from different schools. This year, in the finals, the number one team from Parma placed second. The girls, under the careful guidance and supervision of Miss Felt and Miss Munsell, learned the correct rules and procedures of the sports which interested them.

Give me that ball—it's mine!

Application blanks were distributed and try-out dates were announced. Nervous amateurs strived to convince the director that they were in their element behind the footlights. Faces lit up with excitement or darkened with disappointment as the cast was announced. Set designs were transformed into scenery. Long hours of tedious work terminated in dress rehearsal, a night filled with blinding flashes of cameras. Then—the performance.

Igniting the world of entertainment at PSH were the dances. We jerked, monkied, and shimmied until the final notes were sounded. In addition to the canteens and basketball dances, the Twirp Dance was held. Here girls invited the boys to a night out. The homecoming coronation ball and the WTIP Halloween fete led the way for the class dances, where seniors danced in a "sayonara" world, and juniors whirled in a wonderland of soft melodies. Climaxing the year were the long-awaited proms in May. But with them came the end of the year—the end of many unforgettable weekends.

June signifies an end and a beginning. For the seniors, high school becomes past tense, and the hand of the future holds them in its grasp. For some, college lies ahead. For others, a job or a branch of the service awaits them. To the juniors it is a fulfillment of dreams, as they receive the cherished title of "senior." Assuming the role of upperclassmen, sophomores meet new challenges characteristic of June . . . an end and a beginning.
